“Wolfy's Gang”

SYNOPSIS:

The Maned Wolf and his inseparable friends, the Nine-banded Armadillo the Golden Lion Tamarin, the Jabiru Bird, the Blue Land Crab and the Woodpecker are always heading out on trips with a world map in hand, headed to the destination of their choice. A bit bumbling, they always seem to get lost and just when they think they'll never reach their destination they start to notice the nature around them: the characteristics of the vegetation and climate. Then they realize they are finally where they wanted to get to.

Relieved, they are then ready to enjoy their outing and find out all about that biome, but they end up coming across some animal or plant that is in trouble and needs their help. The Maned Wolf and his gang get into big messes in order to save their new friends: natural dangers like rushing water currents, heavy rain, predators, hunters and wildlife traders, among others.

With courage and wisdom, they manage to solve each dilemma. So, their new friend together with the habitat of that particular biome, reveal things about their culture, habits and dances. Everyone celebrates singing and dancing, throwing a big party. Wolfy's Gang, says goodbye and they all hit the road once again.
